to suspend votings in at least 500 centres in Chittagong, Jamalpur, Dhaka, Narayangani, Cox's Bazaar, Rajshahi and Khulna districts after rival groups kidnapped some polling officials and snatched away ballot boxes.

Witnesses said the turnout was low in the elections for union councils, the lowest tier of government, which traditionally have involved bitter local rivalries.

They said the riot police guarding polling stations took cameras and film away from some photographers.

The helicopter raid, the first on a ship in about a year, followed by eight days, a similar attack by one of Iran's aged F-4 Phantom jets on another tanker -- coincidentally also flying the Liberian flag.

The Feb 2 raid was the first time any of Iran's aging US-built warplanes had attacked a vessel in the Gulf in more than two years. Iran since that time has depended mainly on naval frigates and armed speedboats as it preys on neutral shipping in retaliation for Iraqi air raids.

Iraq's official news agency, reported that Iraqi jets had flown 76 sorties and helicopters another 32 along the 730-mile (1,160 km) war front. At the same time, it said President Saddam Hussein had met with top-rank-ing commanders "to review the situation.

For the past three months, Iran has been expected to launch a major winter offensive, but the operation has not yet taken shape and there have been no reports ing of forces that would indicate it is imminent. An officer aboard the 38,795-ton tanker Veronique told an American NBC television crew that his vessel, loaded with Saudi Arabian crude oil, was attacked "without warning" and "many, many times" by the helicopter, over a two-hour period begin-ning about 11:30 pm (1930 GMT), some 40 miles (65 kilometres) off Dubai.

Caused

The ship was riddled with machine-gun fire and had a gaping hole, apparently caused by a rocket, on its port side near the waterline. There were no reports of casualties among the crew, mostly South Koreans. The officer said he could not identify the helicopter by type or nationality but shipping executives, who asked not to be named, said there was no doubt it was Iranian.

Earlier, Lloyd's shipping intelligence unit, based in London, said the Veronique had been ambushed by an Iranian frigate. Iraq's official news agency said

The foreign minister, accompanied by Prince Bandar, the Saudi Ambassador, also encouraged the United States to try to end violence on the Israeliheld West Bank and in Gaza and to seek an overall Middle East settlement, said the official.

Prince Saud also met for about 15 minutes with President Reagan and senior aides, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

Fitzwater said Reagan assured the foreign minister of the US commitment to the security of the Gulf and the search for an end to the Iran-Iraq war. In another development.

Undersecretary of State Michael Armacost postponed a trip to Israel and the Gulf to help make preparations for the next round of US-Soviet talks, State Department spokesman Charles Redman said.

MANY companies obtain one-month visas for engineers to carry out limited work.

But the one month period may not be sufficient, especially when the work involves installing new equipment or periodic maintenance for example. If we force these companies to ask the engineers to leave and return on new visas, then the companies will have to pay huge sums, especially when the engineers are from North America, Japan or Europe.

It is, therefore, logical for these companies to request extension visas for one or two additional months.

We hope that the Interior Ministry will respond positively to such requests.

US urges Israel to accept peace plan

TEL AVIV, Feb 10, (Agencies): The United States urged Israel today to accept an international meeting in April to launch negotiations on the future of the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, as the death toll in anti-Israeli unrest rose to 53.

US envoy Richard Murphy presented Israeli leaders with a peace plan that called for an "international opening" leading to direct Arab-Israeli talks on Palestinian self-rule in the territories, an Israeli official told reporters.

Negotiations on a permanent settlement would start at the end of this year, regardless of the progress of talks on interim selfadministration, he said.

Intended

The official was briefing reporters after Murphy, ending a four-nation tour, met Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres to press a new US initiative intended to end more than two months of violence in the occupation

Peres immediately welcomed the US plan but right-wing Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, who met Murphy last night, voiced reservations about American attempts to speed up the negotiating process envisaged in the 1978 Israeli-Egyptian Camp David peace accords.

Peres said US Secretary of State George Shultz would take the proposals to Soviet leaders this month and their response would be crucial.

In Tunis, the PLO rejected the reported US proposals, saying they did not mention the even-tual creation of an independent Palestinian state. As sporadic unrest continued, a spokeswoman for Beersheba's Soroka Hospital said a resident of Gaza's Mugazi refugee camp, Imad Mahmoud Amlawi, 22, died of heart failure today after being shot in the neck and paralysed by troops last month.

Palestinians protest abduction of UN workers

Gunmen kidnap girl in W. Beirut for ransom men kidnapped today the daughter of a wealthy businessman living in West Beirut, and Palestinian refugees in south Lebanon staged a strike to protest the abduction last week of two Scandinavian UN relief workers.

A police spokesman said Roula Freij, 16, was being driven to school this morning when the car she was riding in was intercepted by two gunmen off the busy Hamra commercial thoroughfare.

The gunmen dragged Miss Freij out of her family's chauffeur-driven car, forced her into their green Mercedes-Benz automobile and sped away, said the spokesman.

"We believe this is a kidnapping for ransom," he added.

Miss Freij is the daughter of Atallah Freij, a wealthy busineseman who owns a chain of men's clothes shops named after the Arabs urged to formulate new military strategy

ABU DHABI, Feb 10, (Reuter): A prominent Egyptian strategist wants Arab states to formulate a new military strategy to defend their national security.

"We, the Arabs, have to be prepared to encounter develop-ments which might face us in the next sew years," Field Marshal Abdul Ghani Al Gamasi, Egypt's former Defence Minister, said in a lecture last night. To achieve this goal, all Arab states should be united in a new strategy with a clear and defined objective which is safeguarding national security.

Gamasi, 67, said Israel was a stronger military power than the combined Arab states.

"This should prompt the Arabs to strengthen their military power, not in men but in firepower and combat capability
.... I think realising this goal would not only achieve strategic balance with Israel, but also could give us an edge," he said.

"But that does not mean thatthe Arab world should become a military camp. Power should be used to support the political fac-

Gamasi, second in command of the Egyptian armed forces during the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, said a political solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict should be brought about through an international conference.

"But what if the conference failed I would say the conflict will persist and other alternatives are available," he said.

Gamasi said he hoped the Palestinian uprising in the Israeli-occupied territories would continue and escalate.

Asked later how the uprising should be supported, he said "help should primarily come from the Palestinian themselves ... I propose that Palestinian fighters outside the occupied areas move in to back the uprising since the land is theirs and they know its nature better."

Gamesi said Iran and Irao had achieved a strategic balance so that neither could win the Gulf war through military means.

JAKARTA, Feb 10, (Reuter): Indonesia announced changes in its top military leadership today ahead of the expected reappointment of President Suharto for a fifth term as leader of South-East Asia's largest nation.

Call for a private university in Kuwait

HAVING a private university in Kuwait will solve the problems facing many parents who are very worried about the future education of their children after graduation from high school because higher education has become an economic necessity in these times, according to a local newspaper.

A private university would create honest competition for Kuwait University and would help to cover some specialities needed to meet development plans in the country.

A number of students unable to join a college expressed their views to a local newspaper.

Call for effective action

A KUWAITI daily yesterday warned against plots aborting the popular uprising in the occupied territories and called for effective action to find a settlement to the Palestinian cause

Al Rai Al Aam warned against the plots trying to abort the popular uprising, noting that "continuation of the revolt will change all the concepts," and that bring new unexpected changes in the area. The daily alerted that there are already attempts by more than one party through shaky political initiatives to weaken the upheaval and prevent the stone throwers to fight for the Palestinian cause The paper asserted that the words and the condemnation

Threats reflect Israel's fears

A UNITED Arab Emirates newspaper yesterday scoffed at renewed Israeli threats to use force to quell the Palestinian uprising in the occupied West Bank and Gaza.

Such threats are not new, the Abu Dhabi-based Al Ittihad said in its commentary on more than two months of protests in which at least 50 Palestinians have been shot dead by Israeli troops.

It said the threats have two implications. "They reflect Israel's fear of Palestinian warnings to deploy weapons in their demonstrations and a desire to kill more Palestinians under the excuse of being forced to do so."

It said there is no surprise in those Israeli allegations.

"That is the permanent logic of Israel — it has always been the forerunner in striking and the forerunner in crying and complaining," it said.

But we hope that the world public opinion has come to realise Asrael's lies after it witnessed Zionist repression against the

The paper indicated that the uprising would soon turn into an armed revolt.

"The uprising will not remain a stone-throwing protest while more Palestinians are falling from Israel gunfire ... the Palestinians will soon resort to arms because there is no other alternative to defend themselves," it said.

Another daily urged the Arabs to adopt a joint stand against the United States for its unlimited support of Israel.

"Arabs should now deal with the US in a language not less powerful than the Palestinian uprising itself," Al Wahda said. "The uprising should be a groundwork for any Arab action as it proved to the whole world that separate peace deals will never

"The Tehran leadership must realise that its obstructionist attitude has kept it from devoting resources to tackling the people's basic problems and ensured that Iran's entire economy remains geared to war ... rather than to the growing of more food or creating new employment opportunities for its young men and women."

The paper said Iranian leader "Ayatollah Khomeini should use his influence to induce a national consensus on an early ceasefire under UN resolution 598."

Up to 40 per cent of HIV carriers get AIDS, but the symptoms may not appear for several years. Jazairi said each state should take its own preventive steps.
"Some countries have large tourist populations, others large numbers of foreign workers. Some have many AIDS cases. others have none. Each state must take the appropriate measures.

Balanced . Jazairi said there was no reason for Middle East states to require HIV blood tests of the general population. "We have states that have tested 70,000 to 80,000 people and found not a single HIV carrier.' Testing must be balanced, and depend on the degree of danger," he said. Several Arab Gulf states require foreign workers to be tesvisitors, required by Iraq. But it has not made specific recommendations on how states should treat their foreign residents.

The conference, attended by health officials from 21 countries and Arab and Western experts, heard frequent calls for programmes to educate people on how AIDS spreads.

The HIV virus is transmitted through sex, blood and from mother to child. In the Middle East, sexual contact - both homosexual and hetrosexual and transfusions of infected imported blood are blamed for most cases.

BY DINAH

WITH the exception of a visiting Scottish comedian who once described the Kuwait Towers as "the biggest cruet in the world," there can be few visitors to Kuwait who have not been awestruck by their first sight of the futuristic symbol of this new city. From the ground or from out at sea the Towers are an inspiring spaceage image, especially when illuminated at night. They, in turn, offer a breathtaking panoramic view of the city, coast and sea from either the observation platform, restaurant or cafe at the top of the largest fower. Certainly one shouldn't leave Kuwait without enjoying the spectacular view while eating a snack in Le Cafe or a meal in the Horizon

From 12.30 pm the Horizon restaurant offers a three course lunch buffet. If you get there early you can be sure of a window seat, but every table in the restaurant has a good view. As everyone is busy gazing out over the city while they eat, the decor is of secondary importance, but it is nevertheless tastefully done in dusky shades of pink and blue. The black, domed, speckled ceiling creates a planetarium-like atmosphere and the buffet table is arranged around a reascuringly massive central pillar.

The range and quality of the salad buffet certainly equals that of some of the top restaurants in Kuwait. Everything was beautifully fresh and tasty. In addition to all the usual mezzeh and salads, there were some original creations such as a delightful salad of potatoes, grapes, chicken, piacapple and: red peppers or a goat's cheese salad topped with zatar and anchovies. There were also delicacies such as creamed avocado, smoked salmon and

LOVE truth, but pardon error — Voltaire, French writer

Getting the story is seldom easy

By Greg Myre

JOHANNESBURG, (AP): In a country where the media faces constant obstacles, no one has it tougher than South Africa's black journalists.

Yet they consistently produce some of the most detailed reporting on the complex situation in this deeply divided country, and play an increasingly prominent role in the anti-apartheid movement.

Several journalists have been among the thousands of black activists detained during a 19month-old state of emergency. Free-lance journalist Brian Sokutu has been held the entire period without charge.

The government also has threatened to close leading black-oriented newspapers, but they continue to direct harsh criticism at the white authorities. Prominent

"Since there are limited outlets for black expression in South Africa, black journalists play a particularly important role in articulating black aspirations and frustrations," said Keith Lister, the white publisher of the City Press.

Black journalists make up vir-tually the entire staff of blackoriented — but white-owned newspapers such as City Press and the Sowetan, A handful of blacks have prominent editing and writing posts at "white" newspapers like the Star of Johannesburg, the nation's largest daily and a frequent government critic.

 However, numerous attempts over the years to establish nationally circulated, black-owned publications have failed, usually for financial reasons.

Until the 1970s, blacks wrote anost exclusively for black iblications that focused on the ack scene and sports, and had le political content.

Only in the past two decades have mass-circulation black political and regularly challen-ged the white-led government's apartheid policies of racial segregation. "Our young reporters now consider themselves blacks first and journalists second," said Aggrey Klaaste, editor of the Sowetan. "They see their work as part of the political struggle in South Africa."

Like all South African journalists, black reporters are bound by the extensive press restrictions and state of emergency regulations that limit reporting on unrest, security force actions and a host of politically sensitive. But black journalists face additional difficulties. Several publications aimed a: blacks, including New Nation and the Sowetan, are on the brink of closure for allegedly promoting organisations such as the outlawed African National

The Sowetan received an official warning for a story about the ANC condemning "necklacing." a practice by black radicals who set alight a gasoline-soaked tyre placed around the neck of a victim, usually a suspected government informer. The government complained that the article placed the ANC in favourable light.

"It's a no-win situation," said Klaaste. "If we report aggressively, we're going to be closed down. If we play by the govern-ment's rules, we lose credibility in the black community."

Opposition leaders said Rajiv is being urged by some advisers to call a snap poll in the hope the party would keep its majority in Parliament, although perhaps nothing like the three-fourths of the lower house it now controls.

The government admitted that the space of deaths was well a but said an inquiry was not "desirable or necessary at this

Last April, the Sunday Today newspaper advanced the theory that the deaths were due to stress brought on by overwork. Underwater defences are vital to Britain, whose independent nuclear arsenal is submarinebased. Since at least some of the dead scientists were working on underwater systems, no one was surprised when the Sunday Today reported that MI5, the domestic secret services, was investigating.

A Defence Ministry spokesman, bound to anonymity by civil service regulations, said Friday the ministry still sees no reason for an investigation.

He said the deaths were investigated by police and coroners and satisfactorily explained, and and his image as "Mr Clean" has suffered because of arms deal payoff allegations.

The Indian economy also has been hit by the worst drought of the century.

"A section of Rajiv's advisers are impressing upon him that the situation is worsening, that the full impact of last year's drought will be felt more this year and that the opposition is still disunited," Lal Advani, president of the right-wing Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), said.

He said there was no indication Rajiv would call a snap election but the government's credibility was at an all-time low and he would be better off seeking a new mandate now.

Advani said his own party would prefer to wait until the end of 1989 as this would give it time to prepare. A new complication is the rule pending new state elections. Opposed Muralidhar Bhandare, a Congress (I) Member of Parliament, is opposed to mid-term national elections, but he said he would favour a snap ballot if the party won in Tamil Nadu. Meghalaya and Tripura are very important but they are not national indicators," he said.

"But we have to adjust to changing circumstances and unless is a landslide victory in Tamil Nadu I think we should not have mid-term elections.

Although Rajiv has said he not lavour migtern the debate continues.

Advani said he believed Rajiv would not seek a new mandate now but added: "I do hedge my statement by saying anything is possible."

An opinion poll published by Sunday magazine of Calcutta showed a big majority of people in five cities in the Hindi heartland believed prices of essential commodities had risen sharply in the past one year.

In four of the five cities a majority said corruption had increased during Rajiv's rule, although few believed he himself was corrupt.

Yet, in two cities more than 50 per cent and in the remaining more than 40 per cent said they would vote for the Congress against an opposition alliance.

Suharto sure to win

JAKARTA, (UPI): President Suharto, the self-proclaimed father figure guiding Indonesia for two decades, is ready for another five-year stint following an election he cannot lose. The country's highest legislative body meets in March to elect the president of the world's fifth most populous country. The 66-year-old former general is the only candidate. "It's becoming a ritual," said former government minister Sal-met Bratanata, voicing the concern of those who say Indonesia must develop a new generation of leaders if the nation is to continue to modernise.

"In other countries, an elec-tion means change," he said. "Here it solidifies the status

Status quo

The status quo, he said, is dependent on the United States, which bought 27 per cent of Indonesia's 329 million-barrel oil output for 1986-87 and will provide $190 million in foreign aid in the 1987-88 fiscal year.

"American aid has kept this government in the saddle for 20 years," lamented Bratanata.

During an 11-day session starting March 1, the 1.000-member People's Consultative Assembly elects the president and vicepresident. Even if there were other candidates it is impossible for anyone but Suharto to win. The assembly is made up of 400 parliamentarians dominated by the ruling Golkar Party, 100 appointees from the armed forces plus another 400 presidentially approved representatives.

Golkar officials have ruled out discussion of a Suharto successor until "after 1992." By then Suharto, who has strong backing from the military, will have been President for more than quarter of a century.

He has been in charge since quashing a communit-backed coup attempt in 1965 and deposing Indonesia's first President, Sukarno. No one disputes Suharto's accomplishments in stabilising and running this former Dutch colony of 13,000 islands and 175 million people. He calls himself "bapak," mean-ing father, as in "the father of development.

But even avid Suharto supporters hope a nubmer of long-serving and ageing ministers will make way for younger ones in the cabinet reshuffle expected after the election.

Long regarded as the sleeping giant of Southeast Asia, Indonesia is emerging as a newly industrialised nation with a strategic position commanding sea lanes between the Indian and Pacific Oceans. Its vast natural resources include oil, gas, rubber, tin, timber and palm oil.

Palestinians are a motley lot

By Robin Wright

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM: They are among the most destitute and politically impotent in the Middle East. More than two million are registered with the UN as refugees, 766,000 of whom live in concrete-and-tin shanties in camps in Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, and the Israeli-occupied lands. They are also among the wealthiest, best educated, and most influential Arabs. In their ranks are millionaire bankers and building contractors, writers and lawyers, and leading academics at most major Mideast universities as well at prestigious schools such as the Sorbonne and Harvard.

Influence

They are the Palestinians, an estimated five million people who are at the centre of the Arab-Israeli dispute, which this year marks its 40th anniversary. Although one of the smaller Arab nationalities, the Palestinians are also among the most diverse.

Since a 1974 Arah summit, the Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) has officially been the "sole legitimate representative" of the Palestinian people, but its activities are not a fair representation of the wider community's role in the region.

physically. In the Gulf, Palestinians have had key roles in the oil industry, civil service, and academia. Palestinian engineers and builders have helped shape the physical environment in North Africa and the Arab heartland since the postwar wave of independence. As a Mideast analyst said, "The Palestinians' influence and impact are often disproportionate to their numbers.

"They have been feared because they challenged the strategy of Arab regimes, which did not want to fight Israel except verbally. Arab public opinion sympathised with the Palestinians, whereas the regimes did not. Arab regimes were dragged by public opinion into the confrontation, first with Zionism, then with Israel. That interaction continues to this day and limits the regimes' freedom of action,' commented University of Chicago historian Rashid Khalidi. Palestinians are also widely noted for their adeptability and perseverance. Predominantly agrarian people before the creation of Israel, they have ... in the absence of land - become the most skilled Arab population.

'We are the Jews of the Arab world," a young Palestinian once said referring to the emphasis on education. A study by Mohammad Hallaj, director of the Palestine Research and Education Centre in Washington. concluded that Palestinians rank, proportionately, third in the world in numbers with post-high school educations. Obsession

"When an agrarian society loses its land, it loses not only property, but livelihood. For that reason, education became an obsession," Hallaj commented. "Over the past 20 years particularly, there has been an unparalleled upsurge because it was necessary for survival. A mobile or insecure population can't rely on fixed economic activity, like industry. It has to have mobile 'capital' that it can carry in its head." Skills have been vital to Palestinians now dispersed to the corners of six continents. The largest community outside the region is in the United States. Argentina. Brazil, Sweden, France, Canada, and West Germany are locations of significant Palestinian communities.

Dispersal, however, has not diminished the strong sense of national identity, according to Khalidi, a Palestinian who was born in the US. "All Palestinians in the Diaspora and in occupation share a certain set of memories or experiences. This is reinforced by a strong political culture which draws on these experiences. That is in turn reinforced by common circumstances of statelessness and alienation. ... You're different and you're made to know you're dif-

links are evident in financial contributions made to the PLO, the intermarriage of new genera-tions who have never lived in Palestine, and employment of fellow Palestinians. There is a whole network which reinforces the political factors, culturally and socially," Khalidi said.

Stateless

Hallaj added: "Ask genera-tions born in the Diaspora where they are from and they will tell you the village of their fathers or grandfathers."

Only a minority still live in what was, until 1948, the British mandate of Palestine. According to the Middle East Research and Information Project, 42 per cent of the world's Palestinians live in Israel, the West Bank, and Gaza Strip, compared with 78 per cent

While thousands of Palestinians have become citizens of the nations in which they now reside, the vast majority of those outside srael and the occupied territories are, in effect, stateless, Hallaj said. They have local or UN identity cards, instead of passports. "It's not an issue of people stubbornly refusing to acquire citizenship of other countries. In the majority of cases ... this option is not available because of restrictive nationalisation laws," he said.

THE whole of last year and the beginning of this year has roved ominous for the film industry, since many of its famous names have been snatched away by the icy hand of death. As many as fifteen film personalities passed away in 1987, which ended with the sudden demise of M.G.R., uncrowned king of Tamil cinema as well as politics.

But the real tragedy is that the industry has not as yet set up any permanent memorial or museum, where their works could be preserved and remembered. In many cases, the film olks did not even bother to hold or attend condolence

While some big names, who also had political connections, may get statues or stamps in their memory, the rest are bound to be forgotten by the passage of time. One who richly eservés all tributes is no doubt M.G.R. (Ramachandran) who was worshipped like a demigod by millions in Tamil Nadu. He became a folk hero, rising of the Tamil people was neither born in Tamil Nadu nor belonged to that language. He came from a Malayalam-speaking family of Sri Lanka. His father Gopala Menon was a magistrate and professor in Kandy, where M.G.R was born on 17 January 1917. But within two years he lost his father and the burden of bringing up two sons fell on his mother, Satyabhama. She migrated to Kum-bakonam in Tamil Nadu and took up odd jobs. Amidst hunger and suffering, M.G.R learnt the Tamil alphabet in a village school.

In the cinema of the South he has left a permanent mark, with his 140 popular films, made between 1950 and 1978, after which he stopped acting. Many popular actors of Hindi films also went into eternal sleep. Anwar Hussain, elder brother of Nargis Dutt and son of Jaddanbai used to act from his childhood. He became a hero for some time in A.R. Kardar's films, after which he took to character acting, especially as a villain. His most memorable role came in Zia Sarhady's "Humlog", as the petty thief who betrays his close friend and Another successful villain was Jeevan, who started life in the early talkies. Both Anwar and Jeevan suffered a long illness, as invalids, in their last years. Similarly, Surendra who was once a famous singer and actor; also lingered before his demise last year. Tall and handsome Surendra Nath arrived from Punjab and was at once hailed as Bombay's answer to Calcut-ta's Saigal. The famous "Devdas" role of the doomed lover had made Saigal a matinee idol. So Mehboob Khan made "Manmohan" with Surendra in a similar role and it clicked.

He played many important roles in those early days, like the good son in Aurat later played by Rajendra Kumar in Mother India. Surendra's golden hour came with Mehboob's slick romantic films with excellent music by Naushad. The highlight was Anmol Ghadi where Surendra was Soon, younger actors like Dilip Kumar and Raj Kapoor caught Mehboob's fancy and Surendra receded into character acting followed by retirement. NEW DELHI, India, (AP): A television series depicting the bloody rioting that marked the division of the subcontinent 41 years ago has provoked violent demonstrations and a court suit demanding the show be

The Saturday-night series Tamas - Darkness in Hindi recreates the turbulent era in which an estimated 500,000 people were killed in riots between Hindus and Muslims as India and Pakistan gained independence from Britain in

The creation of Muslim Pakistan and Hindu-majority India also sparked the largest migration in history. More than 11 million people fled from one country to the other to escape bloodshed.

Tamas uses the partition and rioting as the backdrops in its story about the people of a north Indian town in 1947. The six-part film, which began Jan 9. seems disturbingly affecting, as evidenced by the reaction.

In the city of Hyderabad last week, police opened fire to scat-ter a mob attacking a television station showing the serial. Three demonstrators were wounded by gunfire, and three others hurt in a club-swinging charge by police.

A similar demonstration in New Delhi earlier left eight peo-ple injured by police clubs. Both protests were led by Hindu groups who complain that the show could rekindle past violence.

"Tamas will reopen old wounds," says Kedar Nath Sahni, vice president of the pro-Hindu Bharatiya Janata party. He also says the show gives the impression that Hindu groups incited the violence.

Hundreds of thousands of Hindus who have seen partition will feel that the government is trying to blame them for the violence," he says.

Criticised

Others complain that the programme on government television — which controls all TV programming in India could upset the country's fragile religious fabric.

In India, tensions between Hindus and Muslims often erupt into violence. More than 175 people died in Hindu-Muslim battles in north India

Eleven percent of India's 780 million people are Muslims. and 82 per cent are Hindus.

serials, including the long-running Ramayana, which is based on a 2,600-year-old Hinduepic. Critics estimate that 100 million people have watched the Ramayana, and say it has led to "a burst of neo-Hinduism." The show itself has not prompted any violence,

Nirmal Goswami, a television critic for the India Post newspaper, said of the Tamas series that "the carnage of partition is a deep wound in the Indian mind" and that the series' director, Govind Nihalani has reopened it. He said India's millions of television viewers are "not likely to be amused by the whiplash of realism that Tamas pretends to portray.

"How are Muslims and Hindus in the small towns going to countenance the religious provocations which emanate from the film?" he asks. "It is entirely possible that the tolerance limits of these people have been grossly overestimated.

"Our trial memory rarely goes to sleep. It's forever awake, restless, suspicious, waiting for a little sign, a sound, a symbol to uncoil itself and plunge into a frenzy of crime,"

Goswami said. Last month, Javed Siddiqui, a Muslim businessman, made a similar argument in petitioning the Bombay high court to ban the show.
"The serial is bound to revive the sad memories of both communities ... to poison the minds of the younger generation, to think and feel in terms of Hindus and Muslims being oppon-ents and enemies of each other," he said.

But the court thought other-wise, ruling that "Tamas is in equal part against fundamentalism and extremists of both communities. The message is loud and clear, directed as it is against the sickness of com-

The Supreme Court upheld that judgement. People in Bombay also demonstrated in favour of the show, and a youth group in Andhra Pradesh state gave its national integration award to director Nihalani and the show's writer. Bhisham Sahni.

Muslim Parliament member Syed Shahabuddin also is in favour of the show, saying sectarian brutality must be exposed before steps can be taken to counter it. "There is a basic goodness in people. Their consciences will awaken when brutality is presented before them," he says. "I am all for exposure." Shahabuddin feels that fears about showing religious violence to a mass audience are overplayed. "Why do people think the public will only remember the scenes of violence?" he says. The scenes of Hindus shielding Muslim neighbours from religious fanatics and vice versa can leave a stronger impression on the mind." Director Nihalani justifies Tamas with the message that is flashed before each episode: "Those who forget history are condemned to repeat it." Nihalani, surrounded by bodyguards after he received threatening telephone calls, said he has always wanted to make a film on partition. The bearded director was an assistant in the filming of Gandhi, much of which dealt with the same subject.

"Tamas will not create any kind of communal tension, Nihalani said. "The basic thrust has been to emphasise the desire of the common man to live peacefully and help each other regardless of community and religion."

Dharmendra has broken all star records by charging one lakh rupees for each day's shooting. He has also broken the record of not even contributing full day's work in a sober condition.

Dilip Kumar: creating problems for directors

Chunky would have become a star much before Aag Hi Aag. He was tested for the role of the cop which Mohan Bhandari later played in the super hit Pratighaat. But director N. Chandra told him that it was a small film and may not run. So it was better if he started with a big film. Yet, in a way, it also proved true as Bhandari has not gained much from Pratighaat while Chunky has become a star after Aag Hi Aag and now Chandra has also taken him in Tezaab as a big star.

Shabana Azmi considers herself so busy that she did not agree to take part in a seminar on censorship though it was jointly held by two Delhi ministries. Not only did she refuse but she even had the cheek to suggest that her writer husband Javed should be invited in her place. The authorities turned it down as Javed is the promoter of violent films and the seminar was meant to suggest stricter censorship for them. So poor Javed lost face.

Nobody knows about the fate of new film Raasta starring Dilip, Mithun, and Sri Devi: It was lavishly launched with great fanfare. But soon it was heard that Dilip Kumar was having differences with director Bapaiya about camera angles and character etching. It seems a repetition of the old story about clashes with director Asit Sen in the Bairaag days. And what about Aag Ka Dariya directed by Rajendra Singh, which has been lying incomplete for years, though it has the exciting combination of Dilip and Rekha?

Will Melissa go mad or look sultry, or both? Who will marry Emma? Who will Richard look at quizzically? Who knows if Chase Gioberti will rise from the dead? Who cares anyway?

Any time the club suit is vital and neither declarer nor dummy has four cards in the suit, West can bring it in by first leading a high club. Since he has a sure entry with the ace of spades, he can then decide how to continue.

The lead of the king of clubs would have had a devastating effect here. One glance at dummy would have been enough to convince West of the futility of continuing the suit, and the shift to a low spade would have been obvious. That would have permitted the defenders to collect the first seven tricks.

THE thing that disturbs me the most about the Republican race for President is how hostile the candidates are toward each

In order to convince voters that they are worthy of occupying the White House the candidates are distancing themselves from the President and using Ronald Reagan's mistakes to show why new blood is needed in Washington.

NEW YORK, Feb 10, (AP): Pan Am Corp. announced yesterday it has entered into joint tourism venture with Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, to bring US tourists to the Soviet Union.

Pan Am, which operates Pan American world airways, said the partnership between the two airlines is designed to provide US tour operators with easier access to air and ground facilities for travel to the Soviet Union. An estimated 100,000 Americans are expected to visit the Soviet Union this year, Pan Am said. Pan Am's commercial services subsidiary has joined with Aeroflot to form the Soviet-Pan Am Travel Effort, or Spate, which will market flights, hotels and other tourist facilities in the Soviet Union to US travel agents and tour operators. The new entity will be based in New York.

Operator Pan Am named James L. Fannan, an executive of a tour operator company and a former marketing official with Pan Am, as the managing partner for Spate in the United States. As part of the plan, Pan Am and Aeroflot will jointly market and operate new nonstop Boeing 747 flights between New York and Moscow, set to begin on May 14. The Pan Am planes will be staffed by Pan Am pilots and cabin crews, while Aeroflot will place flight attendants on board to serve as interpreters and provide "identification" for the

Of the 100,000 Americans expected to travel to the Soviet Union this year, about 15,000 will be handed by Spate, Fannan said in a statement.

Yeutter sees falling US trade deficits

WASHINGTON, Feb 10, (Reuter): US Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter today said he expected a reduction in the US trade deficit in 1988 and 1989, regardless of the December trade figures, due to be released

Yeutter, appearing before Congress to urge swift passage of US-Canada free trade pact, said more attention should be paid to long-range trends and the quarterly trade figures, not the monthly ones. The Commerce Department last month reported a sharper than expected drop in the deficit for November, triggering an upturn in the securities markets. The 1986 deficit was $156.2 billion and the 1987 figure is expected to top $170 billion.

Improvement Asked about the trade deficit, Yeutter said: "I would would clearly say we're going to see improvement as the year rolls along, whether or not the next monthly figure is encouraging or

He said the trade figures would reflect the falling exchange rate of the dollar against other currencies, chiefly the Japanese yen and West German mark, and the improvement in the quality of US exports.

Ozal support fails to hold up Turkish lira

ISTANBUL, Feb 10, (Reuter): The Turkish lira dropped again today, ending a brief recovery after attempts by Prime Minister Turgut Ozal to support it.

The lira was trading at 1334 lira to the dollar and 785 lira to the mark in the Istanbul bazaar, weaker than when Ozal announced a support package on February 4 "Tahtakale has won," said a banner headline in left-leaning Cumhuriyet newspaper, referring to the Turkish name fort he officially-tolerated black market in the Istanbul bazaar.

Prices The rates, nine per cent lower than the lira's best prices when it recovered on February 5, were edging close to record lows in January. The February 4 support packge included raising maximum lira deposit interest rates to 65 per cent and strong warnings to banks to keep to central bank foreign exchange rules.

Ozal's package also included strong incentives for exporters and banks to repatriate foreign currency earnings. The rate in the bazaar was 17 per cent above the official central bank of 1145 for today.

The bazaar is a small market, but influential in that it directly affects the amount of commission that banks charge for their foreign currency transactions.

IRS steps up efforts

US guidelines for overseas taxpayers

By Jadranka Porter

THE US Internal Revenue Service has stepped up efforts to reach out to the Americans and "green card" holders living overseas with information that could save some of them thousands of dollars in tax and penalty payments.

The IRS set up last month a Gulf regional office in Riyadh where the permanent represen-tative William Dennis Melton and an assistant will answer telephone and written inquiries. Melton, currently visiting Kuwait, said that his office and the visiting representatives from the US will help overseas tax-payers with guidelines on what is expected of them to do and help them prepare 1987 US Federal Income Tax returns.

This has been increasingly necessary since the sweeping changes in the US income tax law, introduced last year, and of which many US tax payers are

An IRS representative will be available at the US Embassy consular section in Kuwait on March 20, 21 and 22.

Those who will benefit from the information the most are the US citizens and "green card" holders who fail to file the tax return, out of negligence or because they believe they don't owe any money in taxes. Melton warns that all US citizens and green card holders must file a 1987 return by April 15, 1989.

Income

A major change for overseas taxpayers is the reduction in the foreign earned income exclusion from $80,000 to 70,000 for 1987 and subsequent years. If those who earn $70,000 or less fail to file a timely tax return, and thus forego claiming the benefit, they will lose it.

Thus income which could have been excluded may be fully taxed and penalty charges and interest would be added. This could amount to a great deal of money for someone who, had he filed the return, would have paid nothing,

Foreign earned income includes the salary plus the fringe benefits such as accommodation, a company car, school expenses for children, home leave. Interest and dividends do not qualify for the exclusion. According to Melton there are many US taxpayers in the Gulf who earn $70,000 and more.

Stressed

Another new feature of the complex US income tax system is that children above the age of five and other dependents must also have their own social security number. This is intended to stop taxpayers from claiming dependents they should not claim or who do not exist. Each dependent a taxpayer claims reduces the tax.

Milton stressed that green card holders and other aliens who were physically present in the US for a substantial period of time must file a tax return for

Some of the benefits that American tax payers used to enjoy before the Tax reform Act of 1986 were withdrawn partly because of the law tax rates. But the rates are being lowered in 1988 while the items were repealed in 1987.

Among them are the exclusion for dividends, income averaging, the itemised deduction for state and local sales taxes, the 60 per cent for long term capital gains, the deduction for married couples when both are working and the credit for political contributions. "The changes brought more equity into the income tax systems. More people will feel that the system is far," said Mel-

Fed likely to vote to ease rates, say economists

NEW YORK, Feb 10, (Reuter): The Federal Open Market Committee, the policy-making arm of the US central bank, will likely vote this week to ease monetary policy to keep the nation's economy from faltering, economists said today. Few are predicting such an overt move as a cut in the Federal Reserve's discount rate, the rate at which it lends money to commercial banks. Such a move could undermine the dollar in the foreign exchange markets, they say. But many believe the Fed could tolerate an easing in the federal funds rate, at which banks lend each other overnight reserves. Almost all the indicators point to a severe weakening in the economy," said Mickey Levy, senior economist with Fidelity Bank in Philadelphia. He predicted the committee would vote to ease rates at a two-day meeting beginning later today.

"It's important to avoid a recession and not just for political recessor." Levy said.

reasons," Levy said.

Whatever is decided at the closed-door meeting, the jittery financial markets will not hear of it until the notes of the committee's meeting are published some time next month. Reagan administration officials have made it clear they would welcome a move by the Fed to ease credit to lower business costs and prod the singgish economy along.

The White House's chief economic adviser, Beryl Sprinkel, bas publicly suggested the Fed may be keeping too tight a rein on the money supply, and that lower interest rates would help the US interest rates fell after the Fed poured funds into the banking system right after the October 19 stock market crash. But since then, the central bank has held a steady monetary policy. Economists say the Fed is now trying to balance concerns about the economy with a need to support the dollar. "Periodic attacks on the dollar may temporarily constrain policymakers and again force more reliance on international coordination." said Ward McCarthy, chief economist with Merrill Lynch capital markets. The only way the United States could lower interest rates without undermining its currency is if the countries with the strongest currencies and economies — West Germany and Japan - agreed to lower their interest rates at the same time.

Environment director appointed

WORLD Bank president Barber B. Conable this week announced the appointment of Kenneth Piddington as director of the Bank's recently established Environment Department. Piddington is currently Director-General of New Zealand's Department of Conservation. He will assume his new position in April. Priddington "will play a key role in the top priority area of developing strategies to integrate environmental considerations into our overall lending, policy and research activities," according to Conable. In an effort to further strengthen the Bank's environmental work, as well as its scientific and technological approaches in many of its development sectors, Conable also announced the appointment as senior adviser of N. Erik Arrhenins, currently professor of Management and director of the Institute for the Management of Natural Resources at the Univer-

Citing the importance of environmental issues to the Bank, Conable noted that "we recently established an Environmental Department, as well as environmental divisions in each of our regional operations vice presidencies. We are exceptionally fortunate in being able to attract Piddington and Arrhenius to strengthen our increased effort this area." Conable added that strengthen our increased effort this area." Conable added that "the World Bank must be a strong force in the environmental arena. We must be prepared to assist our member nations in ensuring that environmental considerations receive careful attention if sustainable development is to be secured."

In 1980 he was appointed his country's first commissioner for the environment and in 1986 he became the director-general of the Department of Conservation — a single department created at that time from separate environmental agencies.

Japan's consumer prices highest in the world: economists

TOKYO, Feb 10, (UPI): The Japanese may be burdened with the world's highest consumer prices, but they are becoming avid and sophisticated buyers of international goods ranging from diamonds to doughnuts.

Despite incomes among the highest in the world, the prohibitive cost of land had made prospects of home ownership so dim that many people especially the young — are spending large sums on food, gadgets, jewellery and hobbies.

Although savings rates remain high in Japan — 16 per cent of income, compared with about 6 per cent in the United States the government is encouraging people to buy more imports to cut its worldwide trade surplus and to spend more at home to stimulate the domestic economy.

The rising yen — up some 60 per cent against the dollar since dotober — 1985 — has helped which has jumped 18.5 per cent since 1985 to a monthly average of $1,900.

The flag carriers of this spend-

Importance

But the importance placed on leisure time, material goods and spending by the 'shinjinrui,' or 'new home race,' may not differ that much from their parents, who are becoming accustomed to the fruits of their own labour. Even the man who highlighted the 'new human race' in magazine articles last year believes the difference between today's young people and their parents is more style than sub-"Most of the people in this society think money is very important," said Chikushi Tetsuya, editorial writer for the Asahi Shimbun newspaper. There is no difference between the younger and older genera-tions. Both of them are so eager to buy stock and play the money

An unorthodox indication of what the Japanese are buying may be found in what they are throwing away. On garbage collection days many streets are lined with workable televisions, stereos, toasters and other household items discarded because their owners have purchased newer models.

Many foreign residents of Japan have furnished their houses with such castoffs.

Jewellery sales are booming. Purchases of diamonds from South Africa and gold chains from Italy increased sharply in the last two years, according to the jewellery merchants and customs officials. In the first half of 1987 diamond shipments to Japan leaped 60 per cent despite a 23 per cent price increase for a 1carat diamond.

Along with a thirst for consumer goods, many Japanese are developing a lifestyle that lessens the burden of hectic work ! a lifestyle that suits citizens of one of the world's wealthiest Akihito Arikawa, 19, a university student who lives with his parents, said the membership fee at Tipness is 'cheap' compared with other health clubs in Tokyo. His parents pay his tuition and

He said his parents' attitude towards money differs from his only in what they like to buy. His father, an avid gourmet, recently spent $750 on two dozen rare mushrooms.

Another club member. Masumi Matsumoto, 32, is a gra-phic designer who earns $3,600 a month and spends most of her money collecting contemporary Japanese and American art. She spends about $3,000 on an average piece.

Matsumoto said she and her husband already have given up on buying a house. Instead, she and many of her friends are buying cars.

Economists say consumer prices in Japan are the highest in the world. But falling prices of food imports due to the higher yen are creating a nation of cosmopolitan gourmets.

Food imports grew in volume by 17.9 per cent in 1986 over the previous year, says the quasi-governmental trade pormotion group Jetro. Meat imports increased by 34.4 per cent, mangoes by 64.4 per cent and wine by 48.8 per cent. Non-alcoholic beverages shot up by 390 per

London Stock Market Report

U.K. EQUITIES CONTINUE MIXED IN LATE TRADING LONDON, FEB 10 - SHARES CONTINUED MIXED IN LATE TRADING BUT OPERATORS WERE TO A SMALL EXTENT ENCOURAGED BY THE HIGHER WALL STREET OPENING, DEALERS SAID.

AT 1530 GMT THE FTSE 100 WAS UP 6.2 POINTS AT 1,713.4 AFTER A LOW OF 1,704.3 AND A HIGH OF 1,716.2. VOLUME AT 1500 GNT WAS A MODEST 249 MLN SHARES, WITH INSTITUTIONAL INVESTORS AGAIN KEEPING OUT OF THE MARKET BECAUSE OF CONCERN OVER CURRENT U.K. INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES, PARTICULARLY THE FORD STRIKE, AND THE NEAR TERM DIRECTION OF DOMESTIC INTEREST RATES.

FRIDAY'S PUBLICATION OF THE U.K. RETAIL PRICE INDEX AND THE U.S. DECEMBER TRADE FIGURES CONTRIBUTED TO THE NERVOUS TONE. DEALERS EXPECT THE RECENT LOW VOLUME TO CONTINUE AHEAD OF FRIDAY, WITH THE U.S. DECEMBER TRADE FIGURES FORECAST TO SHOW A DEFICIT OF AROUND 13.75 BILLION DLRS COMPARED WITH 13.2 BILLION IN NOVEMBER.

THE U.K. RETAIL PRICE INDEX, BRITAIN'S MAIN MEASURE OF INFLATION, IS EXPECTED TO SHOW A SMALL MONTHLY INCREASE, DEALERS SAID THE FIGURE IS OF MAJOR IMPORTANCE IN THE CURRENT CLIMATE, WITH MANY INVESTORS WORRIED THAT INTEREST RATES WILL SOON HAVE

TO RISE TO HELP CONTAIN INFLATION. THE BENCHMARK THREE MONTH STERLING INTERBANK RATE CURRENTLY STANDS AT 9-1/4 PCT COMPARED WITH NINE PCT U.K. BASE RATES.

London Gold

LONDON, FEB 10 - GOLD BULLION SLIPPED BACK THIS AFTERNOON, TRACKING A DOWNTURN FROM THE HIGHS IN NEW YORK, ALTHOUGH THE MARKET STILL CLOSED UP ON TUESDAY.

THE HETAL FINISHED A MODERATELY ACTIVE DAY AT 442.00/442.50 DLRS AN OUNCE, DOWN FROM THE OPENING 443.75/444.25 BUT ABOVE LAST NIGHT'S 439.75/440.25 DLRS CLOSE.

DEALERS SAID MARKET ATTENTION TODAY FOCUSED INCREASINGLY ON UPCOMING U.S. TRADE DATA AND THE POSSIBLE IMPACT ON THE DOLLAR. TO SOME EXTENT THIS AFTERNOON'S DOWNTURN WAS INFLUENCED BY A STEADIER DOLLAR, ALTHOUGH OVERHEAD RESISTANCE AROUND THE HIGHS OF 445 DLRS WAS ALSO NOTICEABLE, THEY ADDED.

London Money Market

LONDON, FEB 10 - A SHARP RISE IN STERLING'S VALUE AGAINST THE DOLLAR TOOK SOME OF THE RECENT UPWARD PRESSURE OFF INTEREST RATES AND LENT A CALMER TONE TO THE MARKET TODAY, DEALERS SAID. STERLING ROSE 1-1/2 CENTS AGAINST THE DOLLAR AND ITS TRADE-WEIGHTED INDEX ENDED UP HALF A POINT AT 74.4.

THE POUND WAS ALSO FIRM AGAINST THE MARK, WHICH IS SEEN AS THE CRUCIAL EXCHANGE RATE AS FAR AS THE INTEREST RATE OUTLOOK IS CONCERNED, AND THE OVERALL PERFORMANCE OF STERLING CAUSED INTERBANK LEVELS TO LOSE 1/16 OR 1/8 POINT.

THE KEY THREE MONTH RATE ENDED DOWN 1/8 AT 9-5/16 3/16, REDUCING MARKET PRESSURE FOR A RISE IN BASE RATES FROM NINE PCT

Wall Street Market Report

New York, Feb 10 - Wall Street stocks remained higher and steady in moderate trading. Early follow through buying of yesterday's late rally provided the initial surge as did a round of programme related buying. Steady bonds provided the underlying strength than enabled some bargain hunting. The Dow Jones industrial average jumped 20 points to 1935.

Advances led declines by a two to one margin on volume of 65 min shares. McGraw-Hill rose five dirs to 57 1/8 on takeover rumors that focused on UK investor Robert Maxwell, traders said. Neither McGraw-Hill nor Maxwell would comment.

Dealers said long-dated maturities were indicated higher in anticipation of a drain on liquidity, but demand focused on short-term funds as banks covered positions.

A senior Saudi Finance Ministry official said in a newspaper interview published on Tuesday that the first offering would b made soon, but gave no exact timing.

Slow growth forecast for Gulf economies

BAHRAIN, Feb 10, (Reuter): Economic growth in Gulf Arab states is likely to be curbed in 1988 by a weak oil market and tight government budgets, Gulf International Bank said in an economic report today.

"The scope of economic growth in 1988 appears to be limited," said the Bahrain-based bank's economist, Henry

"The restrained government budgets in most Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) countries may fail to give domestic demand the boost needed to compensate for the expected drop in oil gross domestic product. The GCC links Bahrain, Kuwait, Qatar, Oman, Saudi Arabia and the UAE.

Azzam said a drop in the purchasing power of the US dollar, to which most GCC currencies are tied, tighter bank credit, planned increases in import duties and a reduction in subsidies would also dampen domestic demand

Economies

But he said Gulf economies could be expected to consolidate gains made in 1987, with the private sector geared to play a more active role.

In Saudi Arabia, non-oil gross domestic product grew by 0.8 per cent in 1987 compared to declines of 2.3 per cent in 1986 and 5.7 per cent in 1985. Saudi Arabia's exports of non-oil products rose by 25 per cent and the inflation rate was a negative 1.4 per cent.

Azzam said developments in the Gulf's financial and capital markets — Kuwait has issued government bonds and Saudi Arabia plans to do so — would help to check the erosion of foreign reserves.

Organisation Petroleum Exporting Countries (Opec) had succeeded in stabilising oil prices at around $18 a barrel he said, and prices were likely to fluctuate around that level well into the next decade.

South Yemen and Mauritania get Arab Fund loans

THE Arab Fund for Economic and Social Development offered yesterday four new loans to South Yemen and Mauritania to the tune of KD9.3 million.

The four credit agreements were signed by Afesd director general Abdullatif Al Hamad and the ambassadors of South Yemen and Mauritania in Kuwait.

A press release of the Kuwaitbased fund indicated that the first loan to Aden, worth KD5.5 million, would co-finance a major road project.

The second loan, amounting to KD1.5 million is earmarked for financing a fisheries institute project and a scheme for fisheries cooperatives.

Facilities

The two loans brought to KD71.7 million total finances to Aden provided by Afesd since inception of credit facilities in The fund also gave two loans worth KD2.3 million to Mauritania. The first loan, amounting to KD1.3 million would finance a project for making better use of "Al Qalab" ore steel mines. The scheme is designed to boost the mines annual output to keep pace with rising demand. The second loan, worth KD1 million would benefit convertible industries and traditional fishing

Loan facilities will help boost economy

THE Governor of Kuwait's Central Bank. Sheikh Salem Abdul Aziz Al Sabah, has denied rumours that the Central Bank was fixing the dinar rate of exchange according to the liquidity of the local market.

Here-affirmed that the price of the Kuwaiti Dinar is determined according to a basket of foreign currencies.

Sheikh Salem also said that the completion of the Central Bank's programme to settle outstanding debts owed to local banks will leadto a new era of economic activity in the country. Facilities

He said this can be achieved by the local banks developing their loan facilities according to new guidelines and regulations.

Sheikh Salem pointed out that the new interest rates which were brought in during the first quarter of 1987 had a positive effect on the demand for credit.

Dollar edgy and stocks firmer

LONDON, Feb 10. (Reuter): The dollar opened slightly lower in Europe today ahead of key US trade ligures on Friday, stocks were generally firmer while gold prices were higher.

Trading on Europe's markets was mostly thin and cautious ahead of Friday's figures for the US December trade deficit. A bigger-than-expected trade gap would be likely to depress the dollar.

Dealers said there was no clear direction for investors to follow. The US will take the lead later today," a London currency trader said.

Gains

Shares in Paris, London, Frankfurt and Zurich showed modest gains after stronger closes on Wall Street and in Tokyo. The gold price was fixed at $443.80 an ounce in London, up from Tuesday's fix of 438.60.

Some dealers expressed concern about remarks today by US Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter to a Congressional hearing that the US trade balance would improve as the year went on, whatever Friday's figures for December show.

The dealers took this as a sign that the US trade deficit for December may be higher than the $12 to 13.5 billion gap that many economists are expecting. .

Maybe we should not interpret too much into Yeutter's statement but I personally am pessimistic about Friday," said a senior dealer at a large US bank in Frankfurt.

The market should be warned

One dealer with a European bank in London said problems could be building up for the dollar in the short-term until the trade figures show a sustained

French share prices started firmer across the board. "The attention is still on speculative stocks and the market could remain a little firmer," one Paris dealer said

Renfrew said Reuters had taken steps to cut costs and trim some expansion plans in the expectation that, following last October's crash on stock markets, revenue growth in 1988 would not match the high rate seen in 1987.

On revenue from client systems, Renfrew said this rose stee-ply in 1987 "but new orders weakened and then dropped sharply after the crash.'

Orders were affected by a transition, still in progress, from video to digital switching technology at US subsidiary Rich Inc and were depressed in some centres, especially New York, as customers deferred plans for new financial dealing rooms.

Renfrew said all geographical areas contributed to 1987 revenue growth. European revenue grew 48.4 per cent and accounted for 57.2 per cent of the company total.

Weakness

Revenue from Asia rose by 27.8 per cent despite weakness of dollar-related currencies in the Middle East and Pacific region, and was helped by "excellent business in Japan and the strength of the yen.

Revenue from North America grew by 32.7 per cent, but new revenue from recent US acquisitions Instinct and I.P Sharp Associates did not quite offset dollar weakness.

Renfrew said the acquisition, completed in May, of Instinct meant "Reuters established a leading position in the field of automated, anonymous trading and entered a new phase of its strategic development.

Sharp Associates was "a further step towards our goal of building up large-scale proprietary his-torical databases accessible from our real-time subscriber terminals," Renfrew said.

Reuters said capital spending rose by 57.8 per cent to £151.5 million ($266 million) in 1987, about one-third of this on technical development.

Reuters also announced today that it would split its American Depositary Shares two-for-one from March I, so that each ADS represents three B ordinary (limited voting) shares instead of the present six.

This was being done to reduce the price of each ADS to a more marketable level, but would have no effect on attributable earnings or dividend income.

Forecast

Renfrew later told a news conference that, although Reuters expected revenue growth to slacken, it had not abandoned a forecast for a 25 per cent rise in pre-tax profits this year.

"We have not yet abandoned our internal forecast," he said. The 1987 profits were slightly above market expectations, several brokerage engineers said in They added that Reuters might face a delayed impact on growth from the October crash. But Renfrew said: "So far we" haven't been hurt too badly. We do not think we will see a major delayed reaction. But we do not know.

Renfrew said Reuters was a diversified business serving different market sectors and geographic regions, which insulated it from setbacks in individual areas.

"Our money comes from our depositors, not the state. We will lend it where it can make a profit, not according to state plan allocation," he said. The Economic Daily said the BOC had more than 1,300 firms as customers. Wang said individuals accounted for only 0.9 per cent of total depositors and the bank needed a larger and more comprehensive network to attract more individuals. He said another problem facing his bank was the lack of a clear law defining bankruptcy for state firms, which would enable it to claim on a firm that defaulted. Currently, it can only claim assets owned by individuals or collectives.

Under existing law, the fixed assets of a state firm belong to the state, not the firm, so a bank cannot take possession of them if the business defaults on loans.

Dear Junior Readers,

Have you ever had someone call you a bad name or say something to you that was untrue and teat your feelings? This is something that often happens in school at one time or another since it is not unusual for a student to say something in anger that hurts another person. Although outbursts of this kind should not happen, they do.

The best thing to learn is how to react when someone says something unkind to you. It helps if you can try to understand that the other person might be angry and unhappy and wants to make you feel unhappy also. Of course, you have probably been told by your parents and teachers to 'just ignore' somone who says rude things, and although this is difficult, it is probably the best way to handle

Do not lower yourself to the level of the other person by saying things back, but instead try to just continue what you are doing and the other person will most likely leave you alone.

A WOLF had a fox with him, and made him do all his dirty work. The fox would gladly have escaped, but the wolf was stronger than he was, so he had to do as he was told. One day, as they went through the forest, the wolf said, Off you go, Red Fox, and bring me something good to eat, or l'Ileat you instead!'

'I know a farm', replied the fox, where there are a number of little lambs. I'll bring you one if you like.'

This suited the wolf very well, so the fox went and stole a lamb and brought it back to the wolf, who devoured it. But the wolf was still hungry, and thought he would go and steal another lamb for himself. Off he went to the farm. but he was so clumsy about it that the ewe saw him and started to bleat, and she made such a noise that the farm people came running up with all sorts of farm implements. They beat the wolf so mercilessly that he fled, limping and

'You've made a fool of

The wolf and the fox

me.' complained the wolf when he reached the fox. 'When I tried to steal another lamb, all the farm people rushed out, and they have beaten me to a jelly!"

Why must you be so greedy? replied the fox.

Next day they were strolling through the forest, when the wolf said, Bring me something to eat, Red Fox, or I'lleat you instead!

'I know a farm,' replied the fox, 'where the farmer's wife bake wonderful pancakes. I'll bring some if you like.'

Off he went, and when he came to the farm-house he sniffed around for a time till he discovered the dish of pancakes, took out six and carried them back to the wolf. There you are!' he said, and went off to sleep.

The wolf swallowed all six pancakes at one gulp, and wanted more. So off he went to the farm-house.

and clumsily pulled the whole dish off the shelf, so that it was broken into pieces on the floor. The farmer's wife came to see what all the noise was, and when she saw the wolf she raised the alarm. Up rushed all the farm people, who beat him with stick and rakes and pitchforks until he was lame in two legs, and he fled howling into the forest.

'You've made a fool of me,' he complained to the fox. 'The farm people caught me and almost beat the life out of me!

'Why must you be so greedy?' replied the fox. Again on the third day they were going through the forest, the wolf limping along with difficulty. 'Red Fox, he said, 'go and bring something to eat, or I'll eat you instead!"

'I know a man,' replied the fox, 'who has a great barrel of salted meat lying in his cellar. Lets go and eat

'Fine,' said the wolf. 'But I want you to help me if we are attacked."

'All right,' replied the fox, and showed him the way to the cellar.

There was plenty of meat in the barrel, and the wolf tucked in and made a hearty meal of it. The fox tte a little too, but he kept running back to the hole by which they had entered, to see if his body was still slim enough to slip through it. Tell me, dear fox, said the wolf, why are you so restless?

'I just want to make sure that no one is coming,' replied the crafty animal. 'Don't eat too much!' 'I shall go on eating till the barrel is empty!' declared the wolf. Meanwhile, the owner of the house had been disturbed by all the noise, and came to see what was hanpening. As soon as the fox caught sight of him, he was out in a flash; but the wolf had eaten so much that he stuck in the hole, and could move neither forwards nor backwards.

The man seized a cudgel and struck the wolf dead, and the fox trotted off through the trees, delighted to be rid of the old glutton.

Math puzzles

Answers to Tuesday's puzzles.

 Since light travels 186,000 miles per second, it took almost no time at all to travel the short distance between Bali and Marty. So we can assume that Marty saw each swing of the hammer at the time that Bali made it. However, he didn't hear the bang of the swing until after Bali made the swing, because he didn't hear the sound until after it travelled the distance between him and Bali. To figure out what this distance was, we observe:

1. Bali hit a nail 30 times every minute. There are 60 seconds in a minute. So Bali hit a nail every two seconds. Thus there are two seconds between each swing of the hammer and the swing just before it.

2. The last bang Marty heard was the bang of the last swing. When he saw the last swing of the hammer, it was accompanied by a bang. That bang was the bang before the last, so it was the sound of the swing before the last. Each swing was separated from the one before it by two seconds. So it was two seconds. So it was two seconds between the time Marty saw the last swing and the time when he heard its bang. This means that it took the sound of the bang two seconds to travel from Bali to him. At the rate of 1,100 feet per second, the sound travelled 2,200 feet in two s econds. So the distance from Bali to Marty was 2,200 feet.

 The answer to this problem is the same no matter what the distance is between Montgomery and Shaftsbury. Let us say that the distance between the two towns is 120 miles. Then the round trip would be a total distance of 240 miles. If the average speed of the round trip is to be 60 miles per hour, then it should take 4 hours for the bus to make the entire trip. But, if the 120 miles from Montgomery to Shaftsbury are travelled at an average speed of 30 miles per hour, then this trip alone uses up the entire 4 hours, and there is no time left for the bus to make the return trip. Therefore, the bus would have to make the return trip from Shaftsbury to Montgomery in no time at all, which of course, is impossible. There is no speed for the return trip that can make the average speed for the round trip 60 miles per hour.

• When Amy reached the first sign, 40 minutes after she had left Branford, she had already gone "half as far as it was from there to Guilford." The distance from there to Guilford was double the distance she had already travelled and would take double the time she had already travelled. Therefore, hiking at her own steady pace, from the first sign to Guilford, took Amy another 80 minutes. Therefore it took Amy 120 minutes, or 2 hours, to hike from Branford to Guilford along the Hammonasset Trail.

When Amy reached the second sign, she was 11 miles from the first sign. And the distance from the second sign to Madison was "half as far as it was from there to Guilford." Thus, when Amy reached the second sign, she had already passed Guilford and had hiked 2/3 of the distance from Guilford to Madison. Therefore, since the remaining 1/3 of the distance between Guilford and Madison took Amy 1 hour, then the total time that it took for her to hike from Guilford to Madison at her own steady pace was 3 hours. Thus, the total time that it took for Amy to hike from Branford to Madison along the Hammonasset Trail was 2 hours +3 hours =5 hours =300 minutes.

Forty minutes of this time was before she reached the first sign, and 60 minutes of this time was after she passed the second sign. So Amy hiked the II-mile stretch between the two signs in 300 minutes — 100 minutes = 200 minutes. Thus hiking at the same steady pace, the other 100-minute part of the trek must have covered 51/2 miles of trail. Therefore the total distance that Amy hiked along the Hammonasset Trail,—from Branford to Madison, was 11 miles + 5-1/2miles, or 16-1/2 miles.

It's a steal

YOUR hostess loans you an empty candy dish which you set in front of you. A napkin is shaken out and proven to be absolutely empty. The corners of the cloth are gathered up, the dish thrust up into the folds, and when you remove it candy or nuts fill it to overflowing!

The preparation:

A second napkin is needed, one that you prepared ahead of time and smuggle in to your place at the table. (It can be inside your jacket, in your purse, or preset under the table at your chair.) Follow the folding diagrams and after you've tied the knot (4), put a quantity of nuts or candy inside the bag, pushing it all the way to the top. Now bring up the bottom corner, fold the left side past the centre, and bring the right corner over to lock inside the left one, as (8). Finally, shake the goodies down into the bottom of the bag. The pressure of your load inside should keep your "load bag" locked shut.

GET the load bag into your lap, with the knot upward and just below the edge of the table, at least a minute before you ask for an empty dish. Spread another napkin flat in front of you with one corner toward you (9). Place the dish upside down on top of it. Put your left hand on top of the dish and pull the napkin out from under it. pulling the cloth straight to you until it is almost free of the dish and then pulling it upwards (10). This time, cover the dish with the napkin, and hold the corner closest to you (11). Lift the opposite corner of the napkin with your left hand and bring it back to the corner you're holding (12). Turn the dish rightside up as your right middle two fingers take hold of the knot of the load bag in your lap. As soon as you have the bag securely between them your left hand replaces the outer corner of the napkin, covering the dish (13).

Now use the same move you did when you pulled the napkin out from under the bowl. Only this time you are bringing the load bag up behind the napkin at the same time. The attention of the audience will be on the bowl in front of you as the folds of the napkin fall around the load bag and hide it. (14). Your left hand picks up the dish, takes it underneath, inside the folds of the napkin, and you shake the napkin and the load bag at the same time. It should open the folds of the load bag so the contents spill down into the dish. If not, put the dish on the table, free the folds with the left hand, and then reveal the goodies. Wouldn't it be great if they were emeralds?

After you pass the dish down the table you will find it very easy to untie the knot so when you leave the table both napkins can be dropped on others to destroy the

S. Korea snatches President's Cup

JAKARTA, Feb 10, (Reuter): South Korea boxers last night snatched the team championship at the President's Cup amateur boxing tournament from defending champions the Soviet Union. All three Korean finalists won their bouts, putting their country ahead of the II other competing nations. Australia, Algeria, Canada and Indonesia won two golds each.

The Soviet Union had five finalists but took only one gold medal, when heavyweight Artem Ter-Akopyan beat Canada's Dominic D'Amico on points.

The Koreans came with better boxers this time. They really shattered the dreams of the Soviet team who have won six times over the past 12 years," said Indonesian sports commentator and former boxer Syamsui

South Korean light-flyweight Cho Dong-Bum took the first gold medal for his country, beating Philippine challenger Andre Tobanas on points. Cho knocked Tabanas down in the second round but the Philippine boxer got up to continue the fitht, although he was unsteady in his feet.

The other two South Korean gold medallists, Kim Yong-Sang and Seo Yung-Sho, had easy wins in the flyweight and bantam weight categories.

Mowbray's own goal sends Everton through

LONDON, Feb 10, (Reuter): Tony Mowbray, Middles-brough's saviour a week ago, gif-ted Everton the glittering prize of a home English FA Cup fifth round the against Merseyside rivals Livernool with a freek rivals Liverpool with a freak 82nd minute own goal at stormlashed Goodison Park yester-

It was a bizarre end for the gallant Second Division side, who had earlier dragged themselves back on level terms for the third time in the three-match series when Stuart Ripley cancelled out Graeme Sharp's 19th goal of the season.

Dragged
Just when Everton were preparing themselves to be dragged into yet another bout of extra time, the Middlesbrough captain, scorer of their dramatic injury-time equaliser in the first replay, stuck out a boot to whack Gary Stevens' low cross past his despairing goalkeeper Stephen Pears to give Everton a 2-1 win.

The fierce gales which had battered Britain all day were bad enough to have warranted a postponement. But such was replayprone Everton's pressing need to conclude the latest chapter of their FA saga that the players were sent out to chase such an important prize in farcical condi-

Forced

Players were forced to hold the ball American-style at free kicks, and Middlesbrough, having gambled on facing the worst of the wind in the first half, were under as much threat from Everton goalkeeper Neville South-all's bombing clearances as the home forwards.

Sharp and Adrian Heath both wasted early opportunities before Sharp scored in the 18th minute. He placed a low shot past Pears after Peter Reid had taken advantage of a mistake by Gary Parkinson.

Fought back

Middlesbrough fought back well after the break and equalised in the 64th minute when Ripley turned home Paul Kerr's left-wing cross from close range. Everton created an FA Cup record by becoming the first Division One club since World War Two to need seven matches to reach the fifth round. They beat Sheffield Wednesday at the fourth attempt in round three.

Samaranch, interviewed by the Japanese newspaper at the Calgary Winter Olympics, said North Korean Olympic Committee chairman Kim Yu-Sun told him he would negotiate with South Korea later this month and promised a final answer next Pyongyang announced, before the January 17 deadline set for countries to indicate whether they would participate, that it would boycott the games unless they were shared between Pyongyang and Seoul. It also said it would continue to negotiate with South Korea.

Buck Sands beat Hunting and Equestrian

BUCK Sands romped over Hunting & Equestrian by a score of 12 to 6 last Friday when they hosted the second leg of this annual friendly inter club meeting between golf clubs in Kuwait.

Having lost the first leg at H&E last December by a score of 10 to 7, BS played with extreme vigour and determination taking full advantage of local course knowledge to handily outscore the visitors and finish overall winners of the 1987-1988 season by a score of 19 to 16 matches.

Although conditions were ideal, prevailing swirling winds combined with the length of the course and difficulty of the rough made scoring hard for the visitors. However, the visitors were able to salvage some honours when the ever improving Mrs Sigrid Sawires (21) out drove all lady competitors on the monster 606 yards sixth hole to secure the longest drive prize for H&E. Meanwhile, Peter Benham (13) H&E won the men's longest drive on the 14th hole when he drove 270 yards down the fairway to edge R. Myers (6) BS by one yard. While Mrs. Val Hedenstrom claiming the nearest to pin prize for H&E at the short 118 yard 13th hole.

Other winners, all from Buck Sands, were 16, year old Troy Bradbury (9) winning the longest drive on hole No.5 when he out drove Gentle Giant Kevin Long (4). Jamal Bazzari (15) won nearest the pin on hole No.3 and L. Hovey (29) winning nearest the pin on hole No.15.

Mini rugby

FRIDAY'S training session attracted a large crowd of both players and spectators. The for-thcoming Bahrain tour has generated more than the usual interest as Kuwait will be hoping to make it 'four in a row' straight victories with virtually a new squad of players.

Captains for the planned tour were also announced alongwith confirmation that the touring group will number 95.

KMMC are co-ordinating both travel and hotel arrangements. The visiting Bahraini senior side who were beaten by Kuwait let it slip that their junior counterparts have been putting in extra practice. Organisers McAree and Bennett alongwith the coaching staff hope to counteract this and are quietly confident that they can match the extra application being exerted by their Bahraini counterparts.

A keen sporting contest is envisaged. The following boys were elected captains for the tour Damian McAree -- seniors, Michael Swanwick - middle group and Graham Crosby will be in charge of the Mini Group.

Well prepared "I am very well prepared, and I will do all my best to win here, in Qatar" commented Saleh.

Sulayem is seeded number one in his team Toyota Middle East Celica Turbo, co-driven this year by Ronan Morgan from Ireland. Al Hajri also has high hopes of claiming the 15th international victory of his career in Qatar over the next two days.

But Al Hajri, champion in 1984 and 1985, is confident that his new Rothmans Audi Quattro can help him take an early advantage as he attempts to snatch the title away from the Toyota star.

Approaching the end of his preparations for the 850-km event, the Qatari said: "If the car keeps running well, I think I can win this rally. It is very quick, very strong and more powerful than the Rothmans Porsche I have been driving for the past four years.

Al Hajri's optimism is shared by his new British co-driver, Steve Bond, whose main problem in practice has been adapting to the unfamiliar desert terrain around Doha, and the pace of Middle East rallying.

The rally starts at 12.00 today from the Doha corniche. Drivers return to the Ramada Hotel in Doha at 23.30 for an overnight halt, then re-start at 10.00 on Friday finishing at 16.00 back at the Ramada after a total route of 800 kms, which includes 400 kms of special stages. In the first 4 overs NBK bowlers Sajid and Najam tied down the opening pair of Imdad Ali and Verold Sirur, which also got them the former's wicket. MELBOURNE. Feb 10. (Reuter): Dean Jones will warn his Australian teammates against any thought that the cricket Test match versus Sri Lanka, starting on Friday, will be a walkover.

"The Test certainly won't be a pushover in three or four days for us," said Jones, captain of the Victorian side which drew a fourday match with the touring side yesterday.

"I'll be taking the message to Allan Border and the rest of the boys that we'll have to work our butts off to beat them in five days," he told journalists.

impressed Jones said he was impressed by young paceman Graeme Labrooy, who took seven wickets for 71 in Victoria's first innings, and batsmen Aravinda De Silva and Arjuna Ranatunga.
